It's now official . . . THE POLL TAX IS A FIASCO!

A SENIOR Rating Officer walked into 'The FLAG's' office on January 19th and announced that his local council was in turmoil in trying to prepare for the introduction of the Poll Tax. * He said that Government claims of 95% registration of Poll Tax payers was laughable, his borough, reported to have had a 99% response, had in fact only 85%.

* He said that chaos reigned in his Poll Tax Department because of the hundreds of new staff taken on very few knew the area, and hence what type of house was in which road, making it impossible to check whether the Poll Tax returns were correct.

But the purpose of his visit was to tell 'The FLAG' of the problems of Bradford which in Poll Tax Departments in every Town Hall up and down the country has been the talking point.

It is proving impossible to register Asians living in the city. Some houses, according to last year's Electoral Register had as many as 14 people living there who should be registered for Poll Tax. But suddenly it appears that the size of these families has drastically reduced to three or four.

He said that the local authority know that a massive fraud is going on but they are powerless to do anything about it. With many Asians looking the same and apart from raiding houses or embarking on lengthy surveillance programmes it is impossible to establish the number living in any one house.

But the Ratings Officer had a parting shot. He said that the local Labour Party in Bradford were in a state of panic. They were seeing their firm base of support amongst the Asian community being cut by up to a third.

BRITAIN BOWS TO ISLAM!

MUSLIM FANATICS ARE treating Britain as though it is an Islamic Republic, and the British people and the British Government appear powerless to do anything about it!

By
WINGFIELD

In the space of just seven days Muslims living in Britain rode roughshod over a number of British traditions that have guided this country for the last four hundred years.

In Tameside, at Greenfield Primary School in Hyde, traditional Christian worship has been banned and replaced by Muslim Assemblies. The six white children on its roll of 212 pupils will have to attend a service conducted by a Muslim priest in Bengali.

At the Husaini Shia Islamic Centre in Stanmore, Middlesex, a member of the British Royal Family, Princess Diana, had to take off her hat and shoes and cover her head in a scarf to enter the centre.

At the centre a worker refused to shake the Princess's hand because it was against his religion. To add insult to injury she was given, by the centre, the English version of the Koran for her children to read!

Two Muslim girls forced Altrincham Grammar School to change rules that had guided the school since it was founded. They refused to obey school rules over their uniform and refused to attend the school unless they were allowed to wear Muslim headscarves. After originally standing firm, the school governors caved-in under media and Government pressure and bowed to the girls demands.

INTIMIDATED

Threats of violence by the Muslim community living in Britain have intimidated Penguin Books into changing their decision to publish The Satanic Verses in paperback.

But the worse example of how Britain has bowed to Islam has been the Government's decision not to prosecute British Muslim leader, Dr Kalim Siddiqi for incitement to murder. He had called for the death of Salman Rushdie at a meeting in Manchester last October. The matter was referred to the Department of Public Prosecutions but following Government intervention no action was taken.

FRIGHTENED

The Government took no action because they were frightened of the consequences. They were frightened of what the Muslim community in Britain would do.

The British way of life is under threat and only the National Front appears concerned. The Government might bow to Islam but the NF certainly will not.

We will fight to maintain every British tradition, every British law. We will fight to maintain Christianity in our schools and law and order on our streets; and we will never ever allow a member of the British Royal Family to humble herself in front of an alien religious sect on British soil.

What the National Front thinks

- Greenfield Primary School should be instructed to reinstate Christian Assemblies for all its pupils!
- If Muslims living in Britain want a visit from a member of our Royal Family they should treat them the way the British people treat them, with respect.
- The two Muslim girls should have been expelled by Altrincham Grammar School not given in to.
- Kalim Siddiqi should be charged with incitement to murder.
- Penguin Books shouldn't give into violence. In the interests of free speech it is their duty to publish 'Satanic Verses' in paperback.

● If Princess Diana was visiting another country it would be good manners to compliment their customs. In Britain it is the visitors who should compliment British customs.

Yank in Downing Street

THE TORIES have hired American media expert Richard Wirthlin to mastermind Mrs Thatcher's campaign for a fourth term of office.

Wirthlin was behind the successful presidential campaigns of Ronald Reagan and bases his strategy on devising 'power phrases' for politicians to use in pressing their messages home.

One phrase that will not be used is "Have a Nice Day". In Thatcher's Britain everyone knows that's impossible!

Bangla Town

THE ATTITUDE of so-called 'Black Britons' to the country they live in was well shown on BBC 2 television on January 9th in a programme about the Brick Lane area of East London.

Abdul Ali, one of the 40,000 Bengalis who now live in this part of our capital's East End, told viewers bluntly "Brick Lane is now part of Bangladesh, and we are now asking for it to be called Bangla Town".

Family Favourite

PRIME MINISTER, Margaret (I understand people's fears about being swamped) Thatcher, has named her new immigration adviser.

West Indian, John Taylor, cops £30,000 helping the Government restrict the number of Hong Kong Chinese allowed into the UK.

Taylor angrily denied he would show any favouritism when processing applications for settlement from Jamaica and Barbados.

Pakistani Remedy

THE LANCASHIRE Red Cross has translated its leaflet on the causes and treatment of Hypothermia into Urdu and Bengali to help the county's growing Pakistani population.

Cause: Britain's climate. Treatment: Return ticket to Pakistan. Anyone know the translation?

Changing Face of Britain

A FAVOURITE argument of multi-racialists is that we can't complain about our country being taken over by Coloured Immigrants because "every year more people leave Britain than come in".

The latest official figures from the Office of Population, Censuses and Surveys published on December 18th and covering 1988 do indeed seem to back them up. They show 216,000 immigrating to our country in 1988 but 237,000 leaving, a net outflow of 21,000.

But when we look at the detailed breakdown the figures provide of what sort of person is going in which direction, the flaw in the multi-racialist argument is at once exposed.

For of the net outflow of 55,000, 54,000 were of British origin, almost all White. Whereas of the net inflow of 34,000, only 10,000 came from White, or mostly White, parts of the world - North America and

• Coming in: New arrivals at Heathrow changing the make up of Britain.

Australasia. The other 23,000, over two thirds of the net intake to our country's population, came from mostly non-White areas.

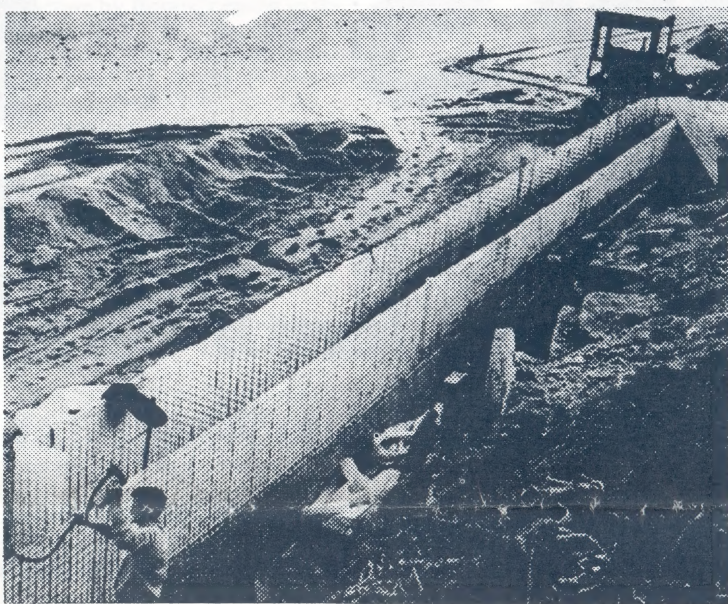

Whilst 5,000 people of "Indian subcontinent" origin left Britain in 1988, 16,000 of the same sort came in, a net inflow of 11,000 Asians.)

There was also a net inflow of a thousand each from Latin America and the Middle East, and 10,000 from "other" countries, which are not in Europe, the Americas, Africa, Australasia, the Indian subcontinent or the Middle East and so must by default be East Asians, Vietnamese, and Pacific Islanders, none of them White.

So the Government's official figures show that, as multi-racialists quite rightly say, more people left Britain in the latest year for which figures are available than came in. But they go on to show, as multi-racialists are careful not to say, that those who leave are overwhelmingly White, whilst those who come in are mostly Coloured.

So the complexion of the people inhabiting our islands steadily darkens, and the day is brought ever nearer when we native Britons will be an ethnic minority in our own country.

Britain's Defence Against Erosion

• Defending Britain's coastline against erosion near Bridlington.

GLOBAL WARMING because of the Greenhouse Effect and the subsequent rise in sea levels will mean that many parts of Britain's coastline will be affected by erosion.

The concern over this threat has been eased thanks to British corrosion engineers who have devised a way of building sea defences faster, more efficiently and significantly cheaper than any other techniques.

The system uses a prefabricated wired membrane into which is put a mixture of cement and any local readily available material, (ie pebbles, sand or gravel). The membrane is impervious to weather allowing water out as the wall is setting but none in. The finish on the sea wall is achieved by using a sprayed-on material which protects the structure from wind and sea corrosion as well as vandals.

The sea defences, called Bastion, have already been erected along coast line to the south of Bridlington by a Leeds-based firm called Hesco.

Bastion is a great British invention for defending the coastline of Great Britain from erosion.

MET LOWERS STANDARD!

• Metropolitan Police Chief, Peter Imbert, unveiling a plaque to Sir Robert Peel founder of the Metropolitan Police. What would Peel have thought of 5ft 4ins Bangladeshi Policemen?

AS PART of a £2 million recruitment campaign to get ethnic minorities to join up, the Metropolitan Police, on January 22nd, scrapped the height requirements necessary to enter the Force.

It is the first time since the Metropolitan Police was founded 161 years ago by Robert Peel that height restrictions have been scrapped.

The Metropolitan Police are also organising cramming courses for Blacks and Asians who failed the entrance examination so that they can have a second chance.

Assistant Commander for recruitment and training, Wyn Jones said members of Vietnamese, Chinese and Bangladeshi communities were prevented from joining the Police because of their size. The average height of a Bangladeshi man is 5ft 4ins.

The 'bending of the rules' concerning height qualifications and the entrance examinations is the last card up the sleeve of the Metropolitan Police in their campaign to recruit ethnic minorities to the Force. A frosty Press spokesman for New Scotland Yard told The FLAG that he was unaware of any other initiatives should these ones fail.

Proud Sons of Nelson?

LAST MONTH more than sixty young lads from Nelson in Lancashire took part in a speaking contest organised by a local literary and cultural group and sponsored by the Lancashire Youth Service.

How proud, no doubt, previous Sons of Nelson would be to see that the sacrifice they made in the East Lancs Regiment in the 1914-18 war wasn't in vain and that the tradition and culture of the North-West of England was being maintained.

Or would they be?

US BASE STILL A THREAT

• Wartime intelligence analysis makes Molesworth a prime target.

THE PEOPLE of Cambridgeshire will still face the possibility of being in the forefront of any future nuclear war. And that's in a war that Britain isn't even involved in.

When RAF Molesworth was a Cruise Missile base, local residents knew that if America was involved in a nuclear war Molesworth would have been a primary target for the enemy.

When the missiles were removed the people of Molesworth breathed a sign of relief. But that relief has been short-lived. The Molesworth base is to be converted into an American wartime emergency headquarters and a special centre for US intelligence analysis - in other words another prime target.

The National Front alone can give the people of Cambridgeshire peace of mind. The NF pledges to remove every single American base from British soil.

Britain's Servicemen can look after the defence of Britain!

What A Choice!

THERE'S A storm on Stornaway over the choice of Bernie Grant, MP for Tottenham, as guest of honour at the traditional Burns Supper on the Hebridean Island.

Guyanese Grant has nothing to do with Scotland and his only claim to 'fame' is his support for the Broadwater Farm rioters and the murderers of Keith Blakelock in his "We gave the Police a good hiding" speech.

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

They will stumble repeatedly; they will fall over each other. They will say "Get up, let us go back to our own people and our native lands".

Administration REPORT . . .

by Tina Wingfield

WHAT A start to 1990! National Front income for January was THREE TIMES that of January 1989!

The telephone rings incessantly and the postman has to knock on many occasion as the NF mail won't fit through the letter box.

Morale in all branches appears sky high and the enthusiastic atmosphere at the Bristol rally was translated into literature sales of £189.00.

There is much exciting news. Computer buff, Steve Brady is helping us sort out a computer and FAX system that suits the needs of the Party. The purchase of this could be in the next few weeks.

A member from Leeds telephoned to pledge £2,000 to the NF Building Fund from a compensation payment he is due to receive this month. He has already handed the cheque over to Leeds Branch Organiser, Peter Taylor.

New members are joining daily and although branch renewals could be coming a little quicker the overall membership situation is very healthy.

Those most loyal of National Front supporters, the Friends of the Front continue to regularly contribute to the Party with a warm welcome to Mr Williams from Suffolk who is the latest friend to join our growing band.

Any queries over membership or any aspect of the Administration Dept please don't hesitate to call me on 0903-211849. The office is open from 9.00am to 5.00pm.

Grimsby NF on the Ball!

GRIMSBY ORGANISER, Mark Richardson acted quickly when the 'Evening Telegraph' printed an article full of lies about the National Front.

Along with NF supporter, Martin Dudley, he went to the paper's office and spoke to the journalist concerned setting the record straight which resulted in the paper printing the NF's viewpoint.

BBC Radio Humberside also broadcast a tissue of lies about the NF in Grimsby and after a complaint from NF Head Office, the programme controller, Geoff Hibbert, has agreed to allow the Right of Reply to the NF in an interview with an NF official from Humberside.

BAND APPEAL

All NF members and supporters who attended last November's Remembrance Day Parade to the Cenotaph, will agree that the 'Worthing Drum Corps' did very well seeing they only had three weeks to get their act together.

For our 1990 Parade, however we do need to either invest in enlarging our own NF band, to hire an outside band or to do both. For this we need to raise money. Ex-serviceman, Stanley Jackson (Royal Navy) has suggested a one-off NF Band Appeal Fund to raise cash for this venture.

He has started the appeal off with £10.00 which has been matched by South-West Regional Organiser, Mark Cotterill. If any other members or branches would like to help this appeal please make your cheques out to National Front Band Appeal and send them to P.O.Box 46, Torquay, TQ2 7SX.

Front Remembers Victims of the IRA

ON SATURDAY 27th January a delegation of National Front members dressed as victims of the IRA and their nurses opposed an IRA march through London. It was part of a two-pronged protest with other NF members from North London handing out leaflets along the route of the march.

BRISTOL RALLY LAUNCHES HONG KONG CAMPAIGN

NF Chairman Attacks the Tories

OVER 120 National Front members and supporters attended an enthusiastic rally in the Kingswood Area of Bristol on Sunday 21st January. With neither a policeman or Red in sight - they all managed to go to the wrong place - the meeting was entirely peaceful and had a tremendous atmosphere.

In a pleasant hotel the meeting, chaired by Chairman of Bristol National Front, John Daniels, was set off by one of Steve Brady's famous tirades against the imposition of multi-racialism in Britain. The second speaker was Andrew Maggs, a local member who has been one of the driving forces behind the surge in growth of the Party in the West of England.

John Hill, the National Activities Organiser, conducted a 'dutch auction' collection which raised an excellent £240.

The final speaker was Ian Anderson who announced that the meeting was the launching pad for our campaign to oppose any immigration from Hong Kong. He unveiled the leaflets and stickers which will accompany the campaign. His speech was devoted to demolishing the arguments of the Conservative Party who are proposing to hand out British passports like so much confetti.

The rally was concluded by a rendition of the National Anthem, after which the members dispersed to carry on the work of building the Party and their respective branches in this politically fertile part of the country.

BUSY MONTH FOR STEVE BRADY!

JANUARY WAS a busy month for NF Directorate member, Steve Brady. As well as speaking at the first NF meeting in Plymouth for a number of years he spoke at the Exeter Branch meeting, the Coventry Branch meeting and addressed the Bristol rally.

The meeting at Coventry went particularly well with one local member, David Hale, remarking how Steve's speech gave everyone a lift. 'It's nice to be told how important you are and the part we are expected to play in the battle for Britain'.

Coventry Organiser, Trevor Stokes, confirmed that the branch was going from strength to strength with weekly leafletting, and those members unable to be active helping with donations.

CORRECTION

In Issue 37 (December) of The FLAG, Tony Labbett was referred to as Chairman of the Exeter Branch of the National Front. Tony is in fact the Branch Organiser and Steve New, the Branch Chairman.

Good Year For Birmingham National Front

THE ANNUAL General Meeting of Birmingham Branch of the National Front took place on Thursday 18th January. Despite pressure from other branches Birmingham still claims the title of the Party's premier branch and its AGM was a demonstration of why it occupies this position.

The meeting was professionally chaired by Sam Fairbairn who was only slightly disconcerted when he was awarded the branch activist of the year trophy. The treasurer's report from Norman Tomkinson showed the continuous hard work of the branch with the annual turnover running into thousands of pounds. Norman even managed to break into a smile when the collection raised £165 and he was also able to announce another large donation towards their election fund.

The report from John Hill, the Organiser, covered the whole year including the tremendous effort put in over the European election campaign last June. The highly successful and enjoyable meeting was completed by a speech from Ian Anderson, the NF National Chairman, who outlined the progress of the Party and its plans for the future.

Glasgow Address

FOLLOWING A meeting with NF members in Glasgow on Saturday 13th January, Kelvin Sanderson, Chairman of the NF's Scottish Department has reported the formation of a National Front Branch for the city.

Trevor Butler and George Watson will be running the branch and NF supporters in Glasgow can contact the new branch direct by writing to 54, Canmore Street, No.02 Newbank, Glasgow G31 4PU.

Luton

EIGHTEEN POUNDS worth of literature was sold in a paper sale held in Dunstable on Saturday 13th January.

New Luton and District Organiser, Kevin Hanlon as well as planning an ambitious programme of local activities has made it crystal clear to his members his priority is to improve the image of the National Front in the eyes of the people of Luton and Dunstable.

Walsall

NF DEPUTY Chairman, Martin Wingfield, has been adopted by Walsall and West Bromwich National Front to contest the West Bromwich Constituency for the National Front at the next General Election.

At Walsall's branch meeting on Wednesday 24th January, Martin Wingfield said he was honoured to represent the NF in the seat where in 1974 the NF made history when their candidate, Martin Webster, polled 16% and saved the NF deposit for the first and only time.

Deposits

£2,000, THE election deposit for four West Midlands seats at the next General Election has now been paid by a Birmingham businessman.

He handed the latest deposit over to Birmingham Treasurer, Norman Tomkinson, when leafletting in the Mid Staffordshire Constituency for the forthcoming by-election.

Worthing

TWO NEW Worthing Branch Committee members Paul Nadin (Organiser) and Dawn Nugent (Secretary) have already made their mark on the branch.

January saw two papersales in Worthing, two leafletting sessions, a successful branch meeting, a successful committee meeting, six members travel to the Bristol rally and four members travel to London for the anti-IRA demo.

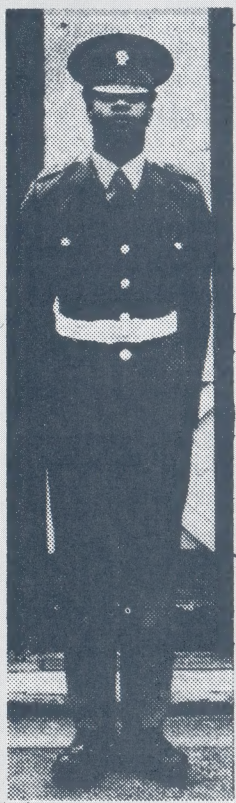

Leeds

LEEDS NATIONAL Front look set to fight three council seats in local elections this May. Richmond Hill and Beeston Wards will see NF candidates as well as a ward in Dewsbury.

Slough

SLOUGH NATIONAL Front as well as leafletting every week in Slough have also visited Hayes and Southall (They must be mad!) to spread the NF message.

The Branch has also made a £100 donation to the NF Building Fund.

Racial Bodily Harm?

A FORMER Grenadier Guardsman, Winston Lindsay is claiming alleged racial discrimination against the Ministry of Defence. Lindsay was discharged from the Army in 1988 after serving just nine months. He went absent without leave after claiming he was being bullied. The Commission for Racial Equality are backing Lindsay's case which is claiming racial discrimination and victimisation because the Army is refusing to allow the guardsman to re-enlist. But all is not as it seems. The 'picked-on' Lindsay apparently did his own 'picking-on' in civilian life being convicted for causing actual bodily harm. It was because he forgot to tell the Army of his record that his application was refused!

Patriotic Trend

TODAY'S TEENAGERS in Britain are proud of their country. That was the finding of a recent survey. Top of the poll was Scotland where 88% of youngsters said they were patriotic. Those interviewed also said that good relationships at home were important and as many as 80% said they got on well with their parents.

BRITISH DEFENCE

Time For New Thinking

by Steve Brady

THE STEADY FALLING apart of the Soviets' "Warsaw Pact" Empire in recent months, has made the role of large American aircraft carrier, in which Britain's defence policy has been cast by successive Tory and Labour Governments, more and more irrelevant to the world of the dawning decade. It shows up the need, long recognised by the National Front, for new thinking in British defence policy, new thinking based on the true role of our Services. Not one of pawns in a cosmic confrontation of vast superpower blocs. But instead one of defenders of our country, our frontiers, our people, pledged to fight for Britain, not America. Yet, thanks to decades of surrendering control of British defence policy to the Pentagon, our armed forces have never been worse equipped to do their duty - defending our shores.

THE ARMY

AS THEY showed in the Falklands, our soldiers are amongst the best fighting men in the world. Our Army is of a calibre light-years ahead of the scrapings of the ghetto underclass and pampered careerists making up that of the United States, or the cowed conscripts sullenly dragooned into the Soviet Army.

Yet it is ill-equipped to defend our country, because it has been squeezed into a mould made in America for their own ends. It is largely stationed in other peoples' countries waiting to get killed in other peoples' wars. 28% of our whole Defence budget goes on the British Army on the Rhine, which is on the Rhine in the first place to fight an American war with Russia that nobody believes will now ever be fought, and which would not have been Britain's quarrel if it had been.

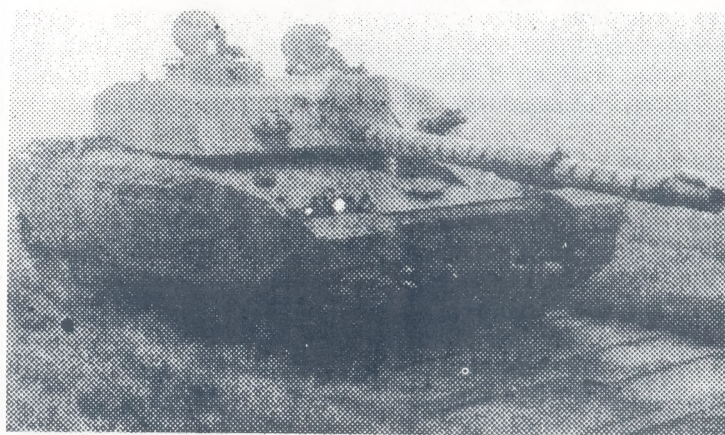

In order to die for Uncle Sam, our Army has been equipped to fight vast tank battles on the North German plain, an area not central to the defence of our home islands! Our tank industry is superb at building the sort of light tanks such as the Scorpion, and armoured cars such as the Saladin and Saracen, which would be ideal for fighting an invader in the streets of the cities of our heavily urbanised island or in the lanes and fields of our hilly, hedged countryside - as Ulster has shown.

But instead our tank builders are bogged down in a project - Challenger 2 Mark 2 - to build a vast, heavy battle tank designed to fight others of its ilk on the wide, flat plains of Northern Europe. This behemoth would be of little use defending Britain, unless an invader was considerate enough to import a similarly equipped armoured division or two and ensure the fight for our land was won or lost exclusively on Salisbury Plain!

In fact, the Army never wanted the first, mark Challenger in the first place and only took it because they had been built anyway for the Shah of Iran, who having been overthrown by mad mullahs no longer wanted them.

In any case the tank is in danger of going the way of the cavalry charge as a weapon of modern warfare thanks to the development of armoured attack helicopters, "tank-busters" which are also in effect flying tanks. Ideally suited to the defence of our densely-populated island. Here again the Government has left our defences in a total mess.

● Our tank builders are bogged down in producing Challenger II a heavy battle tank that would be of little use defending Britain.

Instead of going ahead with a British attack chopper, built for example by Westland, we have been entangled in the usual Euro-muddle "joint project" with Italians, Spanish and Dutch - the "Tonal" project based on the Italian Agusta 129. Whilst the French and Germans mess about

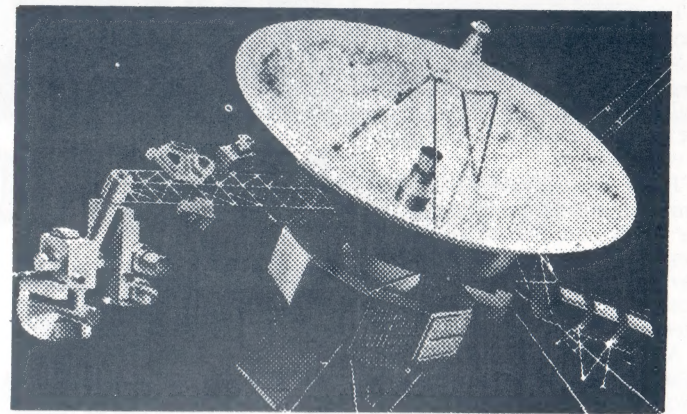

OURSELVES ALONE

THE PRINCIPLE that British defence must depend on Britain alone - is the bedrock of any sound defence policy.

It is and always has been the bedrock of National Front policy. Britain's soldiers, sailors, air- and one day spacemen must be armed and equipped with British designs, built in British factories, tailored to the needs of British defence, and deployed only in the defence of British territory and national interests.

In a world in which the old power blocs are breaking up, we must stand on our own feet and defend ourselves. "OURSELVES ALONE" must be the battle-cry and watchword of British defence in a new decade, and beyond that in a new century.

Nuclear & Space Force

● Britain needs her very own spy satellites.

Lack of Space Capability

BRITAIN'S DEPENDENCE on crawling to the Yanks for spy satellite photographs during the Falklands War shows up our total lack of space military, or any, capability, and why in modern war that matters.

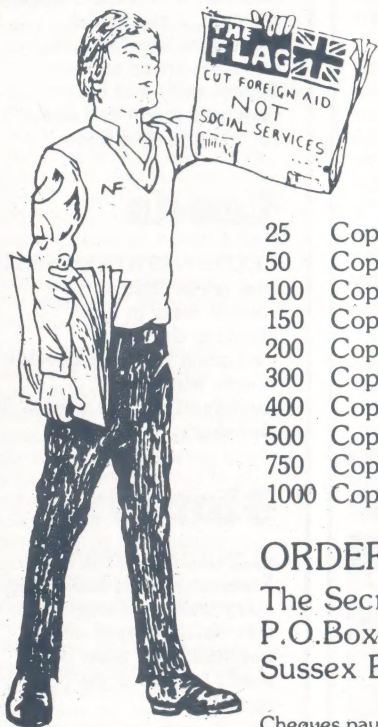

If the Americans had told us to get lost we would have lost in the Falklands. Even Iraq can now put satellites into orbit. As for more advanced space defence techniques, likely to become ever more important as the 21st Century dawns, we have no chance under present policies.

The Government has scrapped HOTOL, a British manned launcher with obvious military potential, and the only way Britons are going into space in the foreseeable future is as passengers on a Soviet mission. No doubt they will be just as happy to oblige if we need to put people into space in a military operation!

"Our" nuclear deterrent, on which we spend a generous 6% of our military budget, is and is intended always to be an American system, using American missiles and dependent on American technical support to work. The new Trident system, entering service in the early 1990's, offers a passable impersonation of a Catherine Wheel fireworks. Britain's Trident missiles are also clearly regarded by the Americans as pawns to be given away in horse-trading with the Soviets. We need - and could build - an all-British nuclear weapons and missile system. That would in the process give us the technology we need to launch spy satellites and orbital weapons. More important, it would place the heart of our defence, the ultimate, final deterrent to any invader, the certainty that however victorious his landing forces they would return only to a radioactive ruin, in our hands and ours alone.

THE NAVY

• HMS Conqueror: Submarines were used to good effect in the Falklands.

IN RECENT years the Senior Service has become the Shrinking Service. A 60-frigate Navy has become a 50-frigate Navy and is set to become a 40-frigate Navy. There are no plans for a new generation of frigates after the present Type 22 and Type 23 building programme is completed. And it now seems that even these new warships will be deprived of vital electronic and other equipment because of "financial constraints".

There is also to be a reduction in our fleet of nuclear-powered hunter-killer submarines, whose devastating effect was shown in the Falklands when with one stroke HMS Conqueror sunk not only the Belgrano but the whole Argentine navy as a participant in the battle.

Not that, all analysts agree, we could mount another Falklands operation with today's enfeebled Navy and midget Merchant Marine. We wouldn't have been able to mount it then if the Tory defence policy of having the size of the Royal Navy, announced by Thatcher's Defence Secretary John Nott in early 1982, had been put into effect. Indeed, it now emerges that "Falklands heroine" Maggie and her Ministers had no idea what to do when they discovered the Argentinians were going to invade. As Galtieri's fleet bore down on Port Stanley, the Iron Lady and her Ministers, in "crisis session" at the House of Commons, were concluding that there was nothing they could do to defend Britons from foreign invasion when into the meeting strode the First Sea Lord, Sir Henry Leach, in full admiral's uniform, with the Falklands Task Force plans, drafted in secret by the Admiralty unknown to the Government, under his arm.

It was Sir Henry and the Navy, not Thatcher, who had the will to free the Falklands. Thatcher's Defence policies nearly left us unable to do a thing, and as it was left our Harriers dependent on US Sidewinder missiles to hold off the Argie Skyhawks and Mirages, and the Task Force as a whole dependent for vital information on enemy movements on what spy satellite shots we could beg, cadge or grovel out of the Americans.

Nowadays Tory defence policies mean there would be nothing we could do to help our fellow Britons if a Falklands happened again.

THE AIR FORCE

IN THE SKIES too Euro-muddle prevails over defending our country. We need a new fighter - preferably again one designed to defend Britain rather than buzz German cows. As the Harrier jump-jet showed, and the TSR-2 bomber and P1154 supersonic jump-jet would also have shown if the Governments of the time hadn't strangled them at birth.

We have the know-how and the skills to build a world-beater. Possibly a supersonic Harrier-type VTOL fighter, able to operate from a city centre car park or a bit of country road if need be, rather than being based at some elaborate base to be "taken out" in the first 45 minutes of an invasion of Britain.

Instead we are getting the EFA "Euro-fighter", which it is hoped will emerge one day from a committee of us, the Germans, Italians and Spanish (the latter nation of course well known for its history of famous fighter planes!). Already the German Opposition SPD want to dump the project, and the CDU Government are voicing second thoughts too. Which will leave us with the Italians and Spanish - to design a flying ice-cream stall, perhaps!

NF WOULD LAUNCH A SHIPBUILDING PROGRAMME

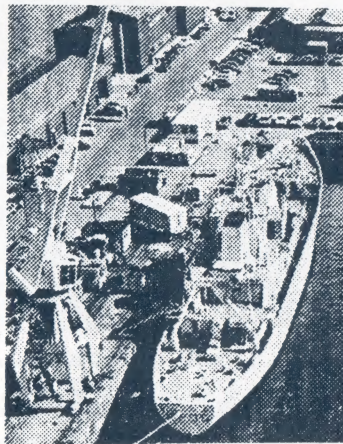

THE NUMBER of operational ships in the Royal Navy numbers just 32 and this in spite of a Government commitment to maintaining a surface fleet in excess of 50.

In 1989 there was a 13% shortfall in the male recruitment programme for 'other ranks' and a 10% shortfall in recruitment of female 'other ranks'.

There has been a rise in the number of personnel seeking early retirement because of the excessive amounts of sea service required. Junior ratings spend up to 80% of their time at sea and Chief Petty Officers about 60%.

Low morale is the reason for the shocking state of affairs in the Royal Navy - low morale caused by Government cutbacks.

The National Front would raise morale by implementing a programme of shipbuilding to extend the size of Britain's fleet. The ratio of sea to shore service would be adjusted to take the strain off those officers and ratings at present overstretched and there would be a general improvement in conditions to attract new recruits.

• NF would increase Fleet size

Churchgoer Personality & Character Under Threat!

• Bishop Tutu and the Dean of Westminster 'stomping for Jesus?'.

by Allen Boyce

MEMBERS OF the National Front who go to church on a regular basis should choose their church very carefully. Avoid the ones where the Charismatic Movement is in existence.

The Charismatic Movement teaches people to think emotionally and not logically. It incites highly strung people to get in a frenzy over Jesus. The Charismatic Movement is sweeping this country like wild-fire and is taking churches and clergymen alike by storm.

In practically all cases the clergy think it is a new thing to get people into church. This for the moment may be true, but it is replacing the true worship of times gone by. This Charismatic Movement will destroy the character and personality of churchgoers.

There are over three hundred black Charismatic churches throughout Great Britain. Their congregations are taught to shout, clap their hands, stamp their feet, and dance in the aisles shouting "Jesus, Jesus".

The Bible says in Psalm 46, verse 10, "Be still and know that I am God."

Not only has this emotionalism won over the black population it has firm roots in churches where whites are predominant.

The Charismatic Movement can usually be identified by the sentimental songs they sing, such as modern choruses. In many cases there is only one verse of about four or six lines and they have to repeat the verse several times to give it any length of song.

To be able to identify a good church is usually by the type of hymn books they use, e.g. in The Church of England, The Ancient and Modern revised hymn book, The Anglican Hymn Book, and The Church Hymnal. In other denominations if the churches hymn book is used with the more traditional hymns that is usually a good sign. Modern flimsy song-books beware of.

Gun Powder Plot Next?

THE 'SUNDAY Mail' reports "Given the doubts over many recent criminal convictions, the new Home Secretary, David Waddington, should give urgent consideration to the case of the alleged terrorist, Guy Fawkes."

"Mr Fawkes's conviction - based on a confession obtained under extreme duress - must now be regarded as 'unsafe' and unsatisfactory!"

Unique Body Odor

A STORM of protest has broken out over a Japanese National Police Agency document dealing with the arrests of Pakistanis in Japan.

The document warned "Since Pakistanis have a unique body odor, they make interrogation and detention rooms stink. Police officers must also wash their hands after interrogation as many Pakistanis have some sort of epidemic skin disease". When sections of the document were reported in Newsweek magazine a spokesman for the Japanese Police Agency, Kuniyoshi Suzuki, admitted that such forthright recommendations could cause "misunderstandings!"

Moral Clean-Up Needed

THE MORAL FABRIC of British society - in particular its binding force, the family unit - is in decay, and we in the National Front are pledged that it shall be renewed. The responsibility for this malaise lies with the parties of the establishment (Tory, Labour and assorted Liberal alike), which have united to create the decay, and also with the establishment-controlled media which has contaminated peoples' minds with the notion that morality is archaic and absurd.

Instances of moral degeneration abound. A recent survey found that one-quarter of all births in Britain are illegitimate as thousands of couples reject wedlock. Another indictment of our social problems is the rise in the number of abortions, with nearly 200,000 terminations in 1989. Yet the trend now is towards making it even easier to kill what would have been healthy children, as advocated by the self-haters of the extreme Left.

9,000 CHILD RUNAWAYS

Equally disturbing is the fact that each year in Britain 9,000 child runaways, some as young as 10, fall prey to pimps and pornographers. The mental and emotional injury is immeasurable. Many of these children are from one-parent families - the quickest growing form of the family in contemporary society, and the inevitable result of illegitimacy. In addition to all this we have a rising tide of serious crime - murder, terrorism and sex-offences. For example, in the 10 years up to the abolition of capital punishment, in 1965, the average number of murders in Britain was 265. By the late 1970s that figure had more than doubled. Last year, 695 people were murdered, of whom 89 were children.

The increase in violent crime is strongly related to the growth of the pornography industry, now a multi-million pound/dollar business. For only idiots and Communists will suggest that pornography does not trigger rape and murder, or act as a magnet for drug traffickers, pimps and paedophiles. A recent article in the Daily Mail described the gang rape of two White schoolgirls by three Blacks whose savagery had been aroused by obscene videos, of which there are at least 2 million in national circulation.

PORNOGRAPHY IS ANTI-FAMILY

Pornography is also anti-family. It depicts women as mere sex objects, to be used and then rejected thus cheapening sexual relationships and encouraging adultery, wife-swapping and group sex.

"London, thou art the flower of cities all!" declared the Scotsman William Dunbar (1465-1530), but today our Capital is second only to Amsterdam as the drug and vice emporium of Europe. This is a measure of the gross corruption of successive Tory and Labour governments.

So what can decent folk do, if Britain is not to slide into an amoral abyss? The only answer is - elect National Front MPs and local councillors. Unless people are prepared to open their eyes to the decay of our civilization, the consequences will be irreversible. Britain is so far gone along the path to destruction.

The National Front is pledged to conduct a social and moral clean up of Britain, ranging from slum clearance to a tightening of moral standards in the mass media, and to restore capital punishment for murder, treason, hard-drug trafficking and terrorism. We are also pledged to nurture and protect the family unit in Britain, and to build an education system which instils in young people - the parents of tomorrow - a sense of morality, patriotism, good manners and commitment.

MID-STAFFS BY-ELECTION

Front's Campaign Gets Off to a Lively Start!

THE very first week in 1990 the National Front has been busy in the Mid-Staffordshire Parliamentary Constituency preparing the ground for the forthcoming by-election.

Papersales have been held in Lichfield, Rugeley and Stone, the three main towns, and leafletting has been taking place in Lichfield.

Already branches other than Walsall and Birmingham have joined the campaign. David Howard, NF Sheffield Organiser and a colleague have visited the constituency to help with leafletting while Stoke NF has been working in Stone.

NF Candidate, John Hill, never misses a leafletting session or papersale, determined that every effort will be made in the hope of the National Front achieving a respectable vote.

The NF's early start to the campaign has not gone unnoticed. The Independent has already quoted Norman Tebbit saying "The National Front have come back from the dead to contest Mid-Staffs exploiting the Hong Kong issue for all its worth", while two local papers in the constituency have had John's candidature on their front pages.

The Mid-Staffs By-Election Hot Line is 021-783-3564. Your help is needed in the constituency every weekend.

Kidnapped

THE KIDNAPPING of newly born Alexandra Griffiths has provided the press with acres of heartwarming copy for a long, long time. The restoration of little Alexandra to beaming single mum Dawn Griffiths seems likely to provide yet more acreage for even longer - from here to maternity, in fact.

However, the lots of lovely loot that Dawn and her boy friend seem likely to earn from selling their seclusive story to the press seems certain to disqualify Dawn from ever receiving a single parent's allowance from the DHSS. Now that, as a long-suffering taxpayer, I find really heartwarming.

Little Alexandra, as is usual in these cases, came to no harm at all; in fact was very well cared for. I must say that I have a great deal of sympathy, in these circumstances, for the kidnapper - almost always the victim of a thwarted maternal instinct.

I say victim advisedly for such people are truly the victims of the maniacal family planners and abortion fanatics who have ensured that there are no longer any spare children available for adoption. Why, these days any woman who shows even the smallest sign of incipient plumpness is in grave danger of being dragged off the street and being subjected to relentless "counselling" by one of these pernicious loons.

So, at a time when the birthrate of the White population is falling disastrously below replacement level, their activities are causing many aspiring but unsuccessful parents to go abroad to adopt the offspring of alien races. Thus we are accustomed increasingly to see pictures of Tarquin and Deirdre Bloggs clutching a brace of Vietnamese, or Chinese or Filipino, or Eskimo tots that they have plucked from some overseas orphanage. Such pictures are invariably described as "heartwarming". The heart is not the part of me they warm. In my case it is blood-boiling.

For the natural purpose of the parental instinct is the survival intact of the race. To dilute the race with an infusion of alien children, however appealing, is not a fulfilment but a perversion of the parental instinct. It is a crying shame that such people should have to go to all the trouble of travelling overseas.

Little Alexandra Griffiths is not the only case of kidnapping recently. There is another that received very little publicity.

In the High Court, asinine Mr Justice Scott Baker refused to return a six year old Black girl to her natural mother; an illegal immigrant facing deportation to Nigeria. Instead he awarded continued custody of the child to the White foster parents, who live in the Midlands, on the grounds that the child would be "going to live in an unfamiliar culture". By this he presumably meant that there are more Blacks in the Midlands than in Nigeria.

So culture is just a matter of environment, is it? The Law that will undoubtedly prosecute the kidnapper of little Alexandra simultaneously aids and abets the kidnapping of a Black child. That is not merely a perversion of law but a perversion of nature.

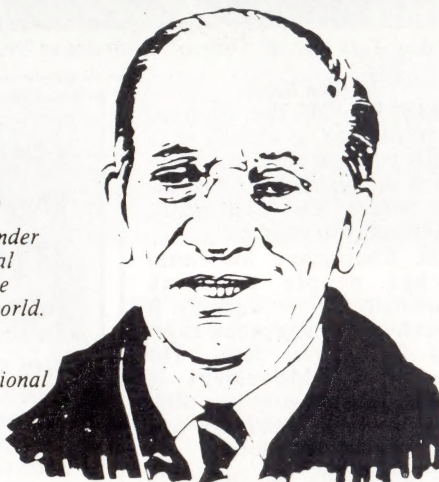

Universal Language

ONE VERY striking thing about the current disintegration of the Communist Bloc is the scale of the protests. Here in Britain we are required to give two weeks notice of our intention to assemble more than two men and a dog. Over there they seem to mass in thousands whenever they feel like it. It really makes one wonder who is suffering the greatest repression.

Another striking feature of Eastern Bloc demonstrations is the wording on the placards they carry. I don't know how many Azerbaijanis, for example, speak English. My guess would be about one in a thousand. Yet at a demonstration involving Azerbaijanis, at least half the placards will be carrying slogans in English and therefore be totally incomprehensible to the vast majority of the demonstrators. It would be the same in China or Tibet or Timbuctoo.

The Ted Budden Column

Ted Budden was a founder member of the National Front. In his column he gives his view of the world. His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect National Front policy.

It would be nice to think that this is because English is the universal language but that is not the case. It is TV that has become the universal language.

Demonstrations are no longer staged for the benefit of the demonstrators but for the benefit of television and are carefully timed to fit into the peak viewing schedule. It is no longer what is actually happening that counts but what seems to be happening according to TV.

So any event that is not shown on TV is deemed not to have occurred and, as we all know, a lot of events that are shown on TV haven't occurred either.

We are living in a world of shadows on a TV screen. When one considers that world's future may be influenced by some deviant BBC creep with his finger on the button we may all come to mourn the passing of Dr.Strangelove.

True Tory

I SEE that Sebastian Coe has seen fit to weigh in with his twopennorth on the subject of the "rebel" English cricketers touring S.Africa. The asinine star of the asinine Commonwealth Games, currently taking place in New Zealand amid a positive tumult of world apathy, has asserted that the wicked cricketers are "mercenaries" and that "everyone in Britain is ashamed of them".

Well it is nice to know that we all have someone of the calibre of Sebastian Coe to speak for Britain - someone whose fame rests on his ability to place one foot in front of the other faster than anyone else.

Alas, this gifted chap doesn't speak for me. Although Gattin's men are being incredibly daring in actually playing a game against White S.Africans, I'm not in the least ashamed of them. Nor am I certain about just what they are supposed to be "rebelling" against, unless it is the cant and hypocrisy of oily creeps like Sebastian Coe.

As for their "mercenary" instincts; well, we are all mercenaries aren't we? I sell my skills for money, just like any professional cricketer. Coe, on the other hand, has made more money out of his sport than any professional cricketer could ever hope for while still claiming to be an amateur, therefore revealing himself to be not only a mercenary but a thoroughly dishonest one.

What Coe has done, of course, is to prove that he has all the attributes of a Conservative M.P. for, indeed, that is what he is destined to be, having been selected for a rock-solid Conservative seat.

The capacity to curry favour with weasel words; the willingness, nay the avidity, to rat on his fellow-countrymen for short-term advantage; this is the stuff of which all true Tories are made. He should do well.

Economic Miracle

I SUPPOSE you've all heard about Madam Thatcher's Economic Miracle?

According to Madam, entrepreneurs are galloping about all over the place entrepreuening like mad and forcing the wheels of industry into a positive frenzy of perpetual motion.

There's so much lovely lolly swirling around. British companies are paying record dividends to their shareholders. Share prices on the Stock Exchange are going up and up. Proof positive, surely, of a competitive, thrusting boom-time Britain?

Well, actually, no!

For what is causing share prices to rise on the Stock Exchange is the good old take-over bid or the prospect of take-over bids.

What is truly miraculous about Madam Thatcher's economics is the fact that shareholders are getting increased dividends at a time when the profits of most companies are going down in real terms. The catalyst that transforms low profits into high dividends is that miraculous element, good old tick.

For British companies borrowed a record £23.6 billion from the banks in the third quarter of 1989; not for investment - that is still wretchedly low compared to that of most of our major competitors - but to boost dividends, often by means of buying the shares of the more successful companies. The future that company directors are investing in is not the future of Britain but the future of company directors.

What is driving companies to plunge into a sea of debt at a time of soaring interest rates is quite simply fear - the fear of being taken over - a process that usually results in company directors being taken over.

For if a company is solvent but not making big profits and paying big dividends, its share price will fall and it will attract the attention of some of those entrepreneurs that Madam Thatcher admires so much. They will take the company over and "restructure it" - i.e. gut it - selling the surplus assets for lots of lovely lolly. Crude folk usually describe this method of making money without producing anything as "asset stripping", but then they do not have the silver tongue of Madam Thatcher who is wont to describe it as "enterprise" and the stimulus of "competition".

If, on the other hand, companies incur large debts to a point where their assets are not greatly in excess of their liabilities; they have very few assets to strip and are in no danger of being taken over, except, perhaps, by the Official Receiver.

It seems that the only way to avoid being taken over is by being too big to be broken up or too broke to be worth the trouble. Alas, companies on the verge of insolvency are not really the stuff of which economic miracles are made; not even in Madam Thatcher's fevered imagination.

So while it is de rigueur in Tory circles to blame inflation on the wage demands and reckless borrowings of the caddish workers - "paying ourselves more than we earn" - equally at fault is the paying of large dividends to shareholders by companies that haven't earned them and the relentless manufacturing of new, money by the banks to finance the process - to which the Government's response is a helpless shrug of the shoulders.

For that is the only response they seem able to make to this threat to Madam's economic miracle.

So what is the Government's policy on take-overs? Alas, the Government has no policy. But then, as you may have noticed, the Government has no economic policy either.

Training

RE. THE article in The FLAG No.38 entitled 'Muslim marchers above the law', I would like to point out that the orders were issued to police on a training exercise.

The Operational Orders were part of Police Riot Training programme. The road names, Islamic centre and march were all fictional.

Although these orders would undoubtedly be issued for the real thing, I repeat that this was for training only and the marches, demo's etc were not for real.

I hope you will take the opportunity of setting the record straight with your readers.

Name and Address, Supplied.

They Could Help!

WHILST JANUARY's front page of The FLAG generally upheld the high standard we have become accustomed to, there is a negative aspect to criticising sections of the community who could help the National Front.

Yes, Enoch Powell has had little effect despite his mouthings. He was responsible for some of the first immigration - Black nurses. However he made people aware of the problems.

I was a great admirer of Proctor as one of the few Tories with the guts to make a scene about immigration. Unfortunately, when the probing multi-racial lobby had his repugnant sexual traits revealed, that was the end.

Dicks is a clumsy clown - as revealed by The FLAG - protected by parliamentary privilege.

Marlow talks much sense but has only one vote in a sea of complacency and indifference.

Tebbit is a working class, gutsy individual whose wife has suffered at the hands of the IRA. If he has seen the light then is it not better to woo him to the National Front? After all he is a man with considerable political experience.

Peter Hart, Nottingham.

Still Playing

KEVIN PROCTOR, reported, in The FLAG No.38, to have broken his leg over Christmas, scored two goals for Barrow against Runcorn on January 6th. It was Stuart Mason who was the unfortunate player injured.

Your paper is an enjoyable read.

J. Pullar, Barrow, Cumbria.

EDITOR UNDER FIRE!

THE EDITORIAL in January's issue of The FLAG criticised the horrific manner in which Romanian despot, Nicolai Ceausescu, was dealt with during the Romanian 'revolution'. It also criticised Western Governments and media for the condoning such excesses.

A number of FLAG readers took objection to the Editorial and a sample of letters received are printed below.

The Editorial was of course expressing the personal view of the Editor and not the views of the National Front.

Drivel

SELDOM have we read such drivel as the editorial in The FLAG Issue No. 38.

How can any true nationalist have the slightest sympathy for the tyrant Ceausescu? This hard-line Stalinist oppressed his people for over twenty years. He and his family lived well, while Romanian people suffered appalling hardships. His execution was not only justified, but an act of the highest patriotism, which should be applauded by all nationalists.

All nationalists should support the Romanian revolution and look forward to it continuing until all Communists get what they deserve.

Let us have no more such editorials denigrating despotism, Communist scum and attacking the people!

Yours truly,
The Committee,
London North National Front.

■ Ceausescu with the Queen in 1978: New information from Romania reveals that the former dictator was gunned down with his wife by a gang of his former soldiers as they returned to their cells after their 'trial'. There was no firing squad, execution or order to fire. 120 bullets hit each body which were later dumped by a wall and photographed to give the impression to the Western media that an execution had taken place.

Awful

I'M AFRAID that the January issue of The FLAG was marred for me by the quite awful editorial.

The Editor might be interested to know that he has adopted exactly the same position on this issue as the SDP leader, Dr David Owen, and the latter's stance has not gone down well here in Plymouth. Such prissy constitutionalism is quite out of place given the terrible circumstances prevailing in Romania.

The Army is condemned for having collaborated with the dictator in the past, but then it's a soldiers duty to obey orders and those who don't can be shot. Who was to give Ceausescu his 'fair trial' when the judiciary was also appointed by him and guilty of executing his commands. In such a totalitarian, police state most people in any position of authority were guilty of some degree of collaboration with the old regime.

A quick execution also deprived the Ceausescu loyalists of their rallying point: thus ensuring the defeat of the Securitate.

To denigrate the courage of the ordinary people and the young soldiers who gave their lives in the battle against the dreaded Securitate is difficult to forgive. Nor did the media have to "desperately" look for evidence of a luxurious lifestyle, the TV pictures of the vast marble palace being constructed in Ceausescu's honour and his hunting lodge were proof enough.

The sheer hypocrisy of a Communist ruler adopting such a lifestyle when his people lived in poverty is almost beyond words.

No, it is not the Romanian Revolution that stinks - but The FLAG's editorial.

Roger Davis, Plymouth.

Proud to be British

THE CONTINUED success of such bands as Iron Maiden and Def Leppard and their 'British and proud of it' hallmark, so strongly evident in their music, shows the strength and character of British heavy rock music.

It is always encouraging, therefore, to see new British bands making an impact in the same good, solid tradition.

Tamworth's band Wolfbane and Bristol's band Onslaught are two new heavy rock groups which seem certain to achieve even greater success this year. Both Wolfbane's 'Live Fast, Die Young' and Onslaught's 'In Search of Sanity' LPs seem set to take America by storm. Meanwhile, their respective British and European fans wait eagerly for new albums from both bands later this year.

Another young heavy rock band who seem ready for the big time are the brilliant Slammer from Bradford, whose debut album 'The Work of Idle Hands' has quickly established them as an up-and-coming force in British heavy metal.

An established British favourite who will be making a triumphal return for a series of dates this year are Whitesnake, whose latest album 'Slip of the Tongue' which was released recently has proved one of their best-selling albums to date. The band will be headlining this year's Donington rock festival, which they should quickly follow by a series of British dates. This will include a couple of performances at Wembley Arena.

Music Review with BOB NASH

From Black to White

RACIALIST overtones raised their naughty little heads in a recent episode of The Bill. At a colleague's leaving party one of the main characters in the series, after enduring a succession of 'rap' and 'house' records, became disgruntled and advised the DJ that he would care for a change. "Haven't you got any Iron Maiden?" was his bawled question.

The colour of the music went from Black to White as a selection including Mudd, Suzi Quatro and Bryan Ferry was played in response to the heartfelt request.

Looks like Hendon anti-racist police instructors still have lots of work to do!

FLAG SPORT

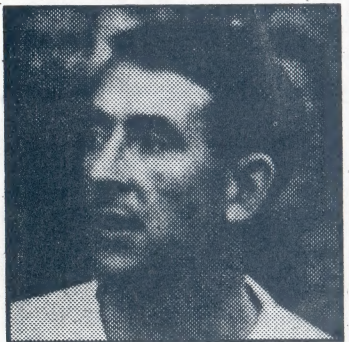

DON'T LET FOOTBALL FORGET ITS LEGENDS!

THOSE READERS who remember the Golden Years of British soccer will no doubt remember the 'double' team of Tottenham Hotspurs.

Dave McKay, Jimmy Greaves, John White, Maurice Norman, Cliff Jones, Bobby Smith and Bill Brown. Names that conjure up football memories that will never ever be bettered.

One man directed the operations on the field and that was Danny Blanchflower. An ambassador of football the likes of which will probably never be seen again. An impeccable sportsman, the unassuming Blanchflower has had mixed fortunes since retiring from the game.

• Blanchflower: A fine footballer.

Initial success as a journalist has been followed by a long deterioration in health which has left him crippled with arthritis.

Friends of the former footballer have revealed that he is living on just £20 a week and refuses to accept charity from either the State or anyone else.

What a shocking indictment of soccer today that one of the legends of our time can be left unaided by the sport he gave so much to.

SPORTS FACILITIES SADLY LACKING

MANY OF Britain's school gymnasiums and playing fields are badly maintained and could threaten the safety of pupils, according to a report from the schools' inspectors published at the end of January.

Britain's schools, as well as educating their pupils for academic goals, should be preparing our Sportsmen and women for the rigours of competition both at national and international level. This is clearly not being done when sports facilities are in such a state of repair.

The report said "Deficiencies ranged from fundamental problems such as badly drained playing fields and buckled gymnasium floors to the potential safety hazards of broken fencing and poorly prepared jumping pits".

The National Front believes in the investment in our children's future be it in academic achievement or sporting ability. As such it is in the interests of the future success of our sporting men and women that school sports facilities are the best that is available.

VILLA SHARES 'SOLD TO FRONT'

By ROBIN JONES

THE National Front has bought shares in First Division title chasers Aston Villa. It has been claimed.

A man who said he was speaking for the Birmingham branch of the Front said members had bought "several thousand" shares in Aston Villa and wanted to buy more.

Mr James Fairbairn, who said he was chairman of the Birmingham branch of the National Front, said "We want to run Aston Villa in a manner that resembles the Aston influence of the Kumar Brothers at Birmingham City."

"We have bought several thousand shares in Aston Villa. A lot of National Front supporters are Aston Villa members."

FRONT'S VISION FOR VILLA

THERE WAS the expected over-reaction by Britain's media to the news that the Birmingham Branch of the National Front had acquired shares in Aston Villa Football Club.

The Sunday Mirror carried a full page report with comments from every possible source. But why has the media reacted so? Why should the NF's plans for Aston Villa Football Club cause so much interest. Let's look at Our Vision For Villa.

* Aston Villa is a Birmingham Club and as such would draw its players solely from the Birmingham area. Gone would be the days of transfer fees - they wouldn't be necessary - all Villa's players would be Birmingham lads.

* To maintain the playing standard of the club there would be a massive investment in the youth programme. Under 11, Under 12, Under 14, Under 16 teams would be the foundation of the club with the senior teams constantly being fed with a steady stream of local talent.

* Investment in the facilities again would be a priority. Villa Park would return to its status of the foremost ground in the country. The youth programme would mean that many local families were directly involved with the club. That community and family aspect would guide the club in its refurbishment of the ground.

* Aston Villa's loyal supporters would have a real say in the running of the club by means of share schemes and regular weekly surgeries where both on and off the field matters could be discussed.

* The supporters of Aston Villa would be ambassadors of the club. If any supporter brought the club into disrepute then they would relinquish all their rights to the facilities offered by the club.

Such radical plans would of course cause anguish in some quarters. When money changes hands as it does in the football transfer market there are those parasites who get their percentage. With transfer deals ceasing at Villa Park these people would be out of a job. And then of course there are the multi-racialist who dedicate their lives to filling our football pitches on a Saturday afternoon with ethnic minorities believing black football idols will help them in their efforts to force a multi-racial society upon us. They too would be disappointed no African, West Indian or Asian would be eligible to play for Villa.

Wimbledon Stabs Tennis Fans in the Back!

ANOTHER BRITISH tradition will be lost next year when the centre Court at Wimbledon will be changed to make way for all-seater stands.

So the genuine tennis fans who in the past have queued for hours for the standing room at the Centre Court to watch tennis at its best have been stabbed in the back by the Wimbledon authorities. The All-England Club makes a nonsense of its name as its reorganisation caters solely for the wealthy, and the foreign wealthy at that.

Yes money, is the reason for the change. Japanese and American executives entertaining their business associates will pay ten times the amount for a seat that loyal British tennis fans can afford for standing room.

And in Thatcher's Britain it's money, not people, that count.

Dismal Month for the Football Outpost

JANUARY WAS an unhappy month for Barrow Football Club, the team The FLAG is following during the 1989-90 season.

After the heady experience of holding GM Vauxhall Conference favourites, Darlington, to a 1-1 draw in front of a 4,240 crowd at Holker Street, Barrow gained only one point from their next three games and in the process lost their unbeaten home record. They also lost both in the Lancashire Cup to Rossendale and a friendly to the local works side Vickers!

Off the field as well things were grim. The roofless stand at the popular end looks like staying roofless after workmen found that the girders which had held

• Faldo: Will he have to ask Japanese permission to practice?

Japanese Tee-Up Wentworth

IN THE heart of Surrey's commuter belt lies Virginia Water with its famous Wentworth Golf Course. Many international championships are held there and its facilities are excellent.

Last year the company which owns the club, Chelsfield, offered out 40 shares in the club at £800,000 each. It has now been revealed that 22 of these shares have gone to Japanese companies - Shimizu has taken 5 shares, others have gone to Nippon Life, C. Itoh, Yasuda Trust, Nikko Securities, Chiyoda Mutual Life and Fujika. Other shares have gone to America and other foreign companies. Each shareholder receives the rights to nominate its executives as members of the club and to hold golf days each year.

FUTURE

Changes such as these will inevitably restrict the ability of British players to practice on the course - hardly helping to produce future British champions.

In a bastion of Thatcherism such as Surrey, it appears that the Yen and the Dollar are far more important than anything like National Pride and giving our youngsters a chance.

Save Richmond Ice Rink

RICHMOND ICE Rink which has been operating for 60 years, has produced many champions including 1976 Olympic Gold Medal-winner John Curry.

It is the home of 19 professional coaches, the Aldwych Speed Club and the Royal Skating Club, which is the oldest in the world.

But now it is to be demolished to make way for homes for the yuppies.

Britain is not only losing a premier sporting facility but also part of its heritage. Let's hope something can be done to save it.

FLAG TIPS 10-1 WINNER!

ATLAAL GAVE our punters a profitable January by running twice, finishing 2nd at 14-1 and following that up with a 10-1 victory at Kempton on Saturday 20th. Those readers who are still following Tiverton trainer John Baker's horses would have had a 16-1 winner with A Man For All Seasons. For February we advise Sterling Silver (2 mile Hurdle), Royal Battery (3 mile Chase) and Shaston (3 mile Hurdle).
